

Dear Parent,

On Wednesday, October 11, the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) will be administered to all juniors. The PSAT, which is a shortened version of the College Board's SAT, gives students an opportunity to identify their academic strengths and weaknesses. Since colleges do not see the test results, the PSAT also offers students an opportunity to prepare for college entrance exams without risk.

The PSAT scores are used to determine eligibility for the National Merit Scholarship Competition. In an effort to help our students prepare for the PSAT, Holy Angels will be offering a one-day test preparation class on Saturday, October 7. The class will focus on core subject review, test structure and test-taking strategies. This class is most appropriate for students who are academically high achievers and have performed well on other standardized tests. If you are unsure whether your student should take this prep class, please call Ms. Kjorstad at 612-798-2691.
